A Foreign View On Commemorative Coins

And Comment On Other Subjects

The annual report of the council of the New Zealand Numismatic Society, signed by the president, J. Rankine Brown, contains much that is of interest to collectors in this country, particularly that part of it which relates to commemorative coins. Below are printed extracts on three subjects in the report.

Centennial Celebrations.

In connection with the plans for the forthcoming centenary celebrations, suggestions have been made that the society offer its co-operation to the Government in the issue of an appropriate commemorative medal or coin to mark the occasion, and this matter will shortly engage the attention of the council. Many numismatists favor the striking of a commemorative silver coin, to be issued at face value, and to be put into circulation so as to flow backward and forward in commerce, and give every citizen an opportunity of retaining specimens as souvenirs of the occasion.

The Australian Canberra florin, commemorating the opening of the Federal Capital, was issued at face value, and was an unqualified success. In the case of the Melbourne Centenary florin, however, a serious mistake was made in charging 50 per cent. above face value (3s.) in an endeavor to make money in excess of the seigniorage, which in itself was considerable. The surcharge was highly unpopular, with the result that out of an issue of 70,000 no less than 68,000 specimens were left on the hands of the Commonwealth Government to be melted. In the case of the Canberra florin, however, all the commemorative coins went into circulation, and large numbers were retained as souvenirs, even in New Zealand and abroad, so that the issue served two purposes—that of general currency, and of commemorating a great historic occasion. The commemorative coin, issued at face value, is the simplest method of marking such an occasion, as it circulates in the ordinary course of business, whereas a medal (or a surcharged coin) has to be marketed, thus losing the advantage of converting what is possessed by many for a short time, into permanent souvenirs. It is certainly not desirable that small denominations, such as the penny or halfpenny, should be used for commemorative purposes, and bank-notes are not suitable.

In Great Britain and in Canada a considerable profit was made last year as a result of the issue of Jubilee coins of large denominations at face value. Due to the acquisitive natures of the people, and a desire to possess mementoes of great events, these coins have already disappeared from circulation. Press reports indicate that 150,000 five-shilling pieces were issued in Great Britain, at a gross profit to the British Treasury of 3s.9d. per coin, or approximately £28,000. In Canada 400,000 Jubilee silver dollars were issued, and it is assumed that the profit to that Dominion would have been even greater on account of the larger number of pieces issued.

If the crown piece were decided upon as a commemorative coin for New Zealand, the number required would necessarily be small, unless the coins were issued at face value, and approval were given for their free circulation; but if a coin now freely used, such as the half crown or the florin, were issued as a commemorative piece (or as part of a series of commemorative pieces) the issue would not necessarily be limited, and the profit to the State would be considerable. Similarly, if New Zealand had been able to issue her 1935 crown pieces for general circulation, (instead of at 50 per cent. above face value) a considerable profit would have accrued.

The long delay in settling the New Zealand crown piece design, due mainly to remoteness from the Royal Mint, and its designers, is a reason for the advisability of the early consideration of designs if a commemorative medal or coin, or both, are to be issued. Competitive designs should be invited in New Zealand and elsewhere sufficiently far ahead to enable the best designers to compete, and to enable the coin to be issued in good time for the Centennial celebrations.

Decimal Coinage.

It will be remembered that the question of adopting a decimal system of coinage for New Zealand was considered by the Coinage Committee set up by the Government in 1933, this society being represented. In its report this committee stated that in the circumstances then prevailing (economic depression and the rapid depletion of Imperial silver coins due to smuggling to gain the exchange margin, and the fact that new coins were urgently required before any change-over to decimal coinage could possibly be made) it had no other course than to recommend the retention of the existing denominations for the new coins, but it recorded a suggestion that the change might appropriately be considered in conjunction with any proposal to issue centenary coins for the Dominion. As the usual period of notice of change-over to a decimal coinage system is about two years, the council will require, in view of the approach of the Centennial year, to give some thought to this matter in conjunction with representations made from England, through Sir Isidore Salmon, M. P., that concerted inter-empire action be taken to secure empire decimal coinage. It is hoped that the matter will also be discussed at the British Empire Chamber of Commerce Congress to be held in Wellington in October next. In this connection it is worthy of notice that the last Empire Congress of Chambers of Commerce, in London, passed the following resolution:

"That whereas the use of decimal coinage promotes commercial efficiency and simplified international exchange, and whereas the various national monetary units in all foreign countries, and also in several parts of the British Empire, are now divided on the decimal system, it is desirable that the decimalisation of the pound sterling be completed without delay."

Although there is a wide cross-section of informed public opinion in New Zealand in favor of decimal coinage, and although the advocacy of this change naturally finds expression through the society, it is not intended at this stage to take action in this matter other than to cooperate with other societies interested, and to make available data on the subject accumulated as a result of specialized study. The general advocacy of this change must necessarily rest largely on actuaries, accountants, educationists, commercial men and others most likely to benefit by the change.

Leisure Hours.

With the progressive increase in leisure hours, the development of educational pursuits or hobbies will tend more and more to engage the attention of a wider section of the community. In the field of educational pursuits the study and collection of coins and medals provides a most fascinating avenue of historical research or enquiry, which may be prosecuted in a variety of directions, according to the inclinations and interests of the student. As actual keys to history, coins and medals form durable and easily exchangeable direct links, not only with past ages, but also with illustrious personages whose images or superscriptions appear on these pieces of metal handed down to us. To the young student the coins and medals of more recent or even modern times are equally interesting, and serve as inexpensive geographical and general introductions to a variety of peoples and places, with an historical background always available for further enquiry. Many numismatists do not actually collect coins, but interest themselves mainly in the historical background of the issuers.

There is a tendency to bring the science of numismatics more into the field of education, and in some high schools and colleges abroad electrotypes or copies of ancient coins are exhibited and used as aids to the teaching of history. These coins, bearing portraits of the rulers of the past, must give a more intimate atmosphere, and help to vitalize what otherwise is often merely the inculcation of cold facts.

ADMIRAL BYRD GIVEN TESTIMONIAL MEDAL.

At a dinner for Explorer Richard E. Byrd on June 5, 1936, sponsored by American industrial and associated groups, he was presented a medal in honor of his achievements in the Antarctic. The obverse shows the Admiral in his hut at his advance weather station, with the inscription, "American Industry's Tribute, June 5, 1936." The reverse is remarkable for the length of the inscription, which is as follows:

"Dick Byrd, Gallant Gentleman—Due to a combination of unforeseen circumstances, it became his duty as he saw it to keep alone a six-month vigil for meteorological observation at the world's southernmost outpost. Before the middle of the long Antarctic night he was stricken desperately ill from the poisonous fumes of a faulty oil stove. Survival seemed impossible. He deliberately chose to die rather than tap out an S O S on his radio. In fact, he further squandered his strength and lessened his chance for survival by painfully hand-cranking his radio to keep his schedule and report "All's well" to Little America, lest his silence cause his comrades to risk their lives coming to his rescue in the darkness. For months of the bitterest average cold ever endured he hung precariously on the edge of the abyss. Untold suffering did not compel him to alter his decision. By a miracle he was spared."

GOLD COIN FINDS REPORTED IN PRESS.

A gold rush may cause a crop shortage at Harrismith, South Africa. All the old legends about treasure being buried in the town and district during the Anglo-Boer war were revived when a gardener dug up a double-shafted Kruger half-sovereign gold piece in a potato field. Within half an hour every potato, still unripe, had been dug up. The story spread and other fields became prospecting grounds and old military landmarks were destroyed. A diviner was imported but found nothing. Neither has any one else except the Kruger sovereign finder.—London press dispatch.

Those among the '49ers, who said they used plows to turn up gold, had nothing on Hans Peterson, who has a farm near Hudson, Wis. Peterson and his sons plowed up more than $100 in gold coins, many more than 70 years old and some more than a century.

MEDAL FOR AUTHOR OF "OVER THERE."

President Roosevelt recently signed a bill to give a gold medal to George M. Cohan for having written "Over There." He has also signed a bill to provide for a monument to Walt Whitman, the poet.

Editorial Comment—Numismatic News

IT IS RATHER INAPPROPRIATE, ISN'T IT?

Those who have had occasion frequently to read the laws of the United States regulating its coinage or changes in its coinage have been impressed with the fact that it was evidently the intention of our early lawmakers to always have on the obverse of its silver and gold coins an emblem of Liberty. In numerous early coinage laws we find it specifically stated that the obverse shall contain "an impression emblematic of Liberty."

With the flood of commemorative half dollars since 1918 we have many times felt impelled to ask how many of them comply literally or figuratively with the desires of the framers of our coinage laws. Perhaps we should not even now raise this question but for the designs of one of the latest of this series for 1936—the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge half dollar. Much of the obverse of this coin will be taken up with the figure of a grizzly bear—Monarch II. Monarch II was born in captivity twenty-six years ago, and during those twenty-six long years has made his home behind iron bars. In the circumstances it is little wonder that the sculptor in his drawing for the coin made the word "Liberty" in comparatively small letters. How much more appropriate it would have been if he could have found some place on the coin for this word other than directly below the bear. Not that we are advocating the immediate release of Monarch II from his lifetime of captivity. Far from it. It may be that we have a distorted view of what real liberty is. It may be that Monarch thoroughly enjoys his captivity and imagines he is living "the life." Surely he enjoys advantages which the average citizen, with all his boasted freedom, does not possess. He can follow his inclination, unhampered by convention or propriety. He is not a slave to fashion or custom. He has few responsibilities, domestic or otherwise. He retires at night and arises in the morning at an hour of his own choosing without comment from any source. He doesn't have to worry about getting three square meals a day nor resort to subterfuge to dodge the tax collector. In various other ways he is "monarch" of all he surveys, even if his empire is rather limited in area.

But that enormous animal in captivity and the word "Liberty" under it just don't click.

The Lynchburg Half Dollar

The Lynchburg (Va.) Sesquicentennial Association has reason to be proud of the designs of the coin it will distribute shortly, struck to commemorate the 150th anniversary of the founding of the city. Perhaps one reason for the pride they should feel is that the models were prepared by a man who has already achieved a reputation as a sculptor.

In a letter from John V. Horner, director of publicity of the association, he says:

"The Lynchburg (Va.) Sesquicentennial half dollar will be minted by the United States in honor of the city's anniversary celebration the week of October 11. The obverse shows the profile of Carter Glass, veteran Virginia Senator, who lives in Lynchburg and who was elected honorary president of the Sesquicentennial Association. The reverse shows a standing figure of Liberty, conveying also the idea of welcome to the city, and a portion of Monument Terrace, surmounted by the old Lynchburg Courthouse. Immediately in front of the building stands the Confederate memorial. The Doughboy Monument, placed at the foot of the terrace in honor of World War veterans, cannot be seen on the coin.

"The design was prepared by Charles Keck, of New York, who was commissioned as the Sesquicentennial sculptor. Keck also sculptured the Doughboy Monument. The coins are expected to be ready for distribution about September 15. Already orders have been received for 15,000 out of the 20,000 issue authorized by Congress. They sell for $1 each, plus 25 cents for mailing an order. Individual orders are limited to ten coins.

San Francisco-Oakland Half Dollar

Through the courtesy of Arthur C. Wyman, president of the Pacific Coast Numismatic Society, we show an illustration of the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge half dollar from a photograph of the sculptor's original drawing for his models. Mr. Wyman says he believes this is the first time the original drawing has been reproduced anywhere.

Mr. Wyman also says that the designs have been tentatively approved by the Fine Arts Commission and that the sculptor is now working on the models. With Farran Zerbe, who has been spending a few weeks in San Francisco, Mr. Wyman has conferred with the commission which will distribute the coins, and he believes there will be no chance for dissatisfaction on the part of those who order the coins.

The obverse shows Monarch II, last of the California grizzly bears, 26 years old and son of the famous Monarch of Woodward's Garden, Mid-Winter Fair and Golden Gate Park. The grizzly bear is the official animal totem of California and appears on the State shield. The reverse shows the Bay Bridge foreshortened, stretching from San Francisco to Yerba Buena Island and East Bay hills, with the historic Ferry Tower in the foreground and several types of shipping in the waters beneath the bridge. It is expected the coins will be ready for distribution as a part of the celebration, which will take place November 12, 13 and 14, next.

The designs are by Jacques Schnier, young San Francisco sculptor, who has studied both in this country and abroad. He was born in Rumania in 1898 and has lived in the United States since 1900. He has executed numerous commissions for public and private collections.

AND NOW IT'S "HOT MONEY."

At times since the bank holiday of 1933 there have been issued in the United States certain forms of money or substitutes for money intended to circulate in a restricted territory for a limited time, and they have varied according to local conditions. Some of them have been "as good as gold" in their respective localities, but none of them have equalled in popularity the product of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing in Washington. They have all been food for the collector.

The latest issue of this type of money was placed in circulation on August 1 in our "good neighbor" to the north, or, more specifically, in Edmonton, Alberta. The name of "hot money" has been applied to it, and the application seems to fit. The public mind associates "hot money" with kidnapers' ransoms, the placing in circulation of which requires finesse on the part of the "snatch" racketeers. But Edmonton's new "hot money" is not at all like this. There is no secrecy about it. In fact, a certain amount of fanfare and ballyhoo goes along with it. As soon as you get it, it seems to burn the proverbial hole in your pocket, and you hasten to spend it, much the same as the older generation hastened to spend the Trade dollars of fifty or more years ago when circumstances compelled them to accept that coin.

Edmonton's new currency works something like this: The money is nicely engraved paper of the denomination of $1. It will be put in circulation as payments to men on unemployment relief, who will be put to work on road construction. And right here is where the fun begins. The recipient is not supposed to put it in bank (the banks won't accept it) nor take it home and put it in the sock. The only thing he can do with it is spend it, and spend it in a hurry. (This gives the plan a sort of Townsend flavor). If he keeps it more than a week he must place on it a one-cent stamp (purchased from the Government) and a one-cent stamp for each and every week it remains unspent. After he spends it he lets the other fellow lick the stamps, and then he begins all over on the next note. At the end of two years (104 weeks) the Government will redeem the certificate at $1 in legal tender if it bears 104 one-cent stamps.

Just how successful the new currency will be, time alone will disclose. Certain civic organizations in Edmonton are opposed to it and advise their members not to accept it. Some of the department and chain stores, as well as some of the independent merchants, say they will accept it. It is said the Alberta Government has requested the people not to patronize the merchants who refuse to accept the currency, and some say the Government will have to defend itself in court, as under the bank act the power to issue notes is vested in banks and the Bank of Canada.

A "MINUTE MAN" TOKEN OF PORTLAND, OREGON.

The token illustrated here was issued as an identification piece during the strike of longshoremen in Portland, Ore., in 1934, by the forces of law and order, and by radio every law-abiding citizen was invited to become a member and to hold himself ready to take the field at a moment's notice. The movement was patterned after the "minute men" of 1776. (Specimen from Carl J. Wicklund, of Portland, Ore.).

Obv., man standing dressed in Continental uniform. At right, "Lexington, Mass., 1776." Above, "Minute man." Below, "Portland, Oregon, 1934." Rev., "Citizen's Emergency League, For Law and Order," with blank space for engraving the member's number.

No membership list has ever been made public, but if it is, it is said it would be headed by the names of bankers, followed by those of other patriotic citizens.

PROPOSED ORGANIZATION OF NOTGELD COLLECTORS.

Through the kind cooperation of Howland Wood, curator of the American Numismatic Society, New York City, an attempt is being made to organize the collectors of Notgeld with the view of facilitating exchange of specimens, as well as their other mutual interests and problems, and to see whether they can revive an interest in this medium. It is suggested that collectors and holders of these war and post-war issues (bills and coins) communicate with Walter S. Child, 509 Madison avenue, Room 1606, New York City.

Will It Be A Coin Or Medal?

Will the Norfolk Land Grant commemorative issue be a coin or a medal? If it is to be a coin it will receive the same consideration from collectors and be as eagerly sought as other recent commemorative half dollars. If it is to be a medal—well, that's something else. Major Franklin E. Turin, head of the Norfolk Advertising Board, is reported as having said it will be used as a coin or nothing at all.

The dispute, which has aroused much bitter feeling in Norfolk against the Administration, arose shortly after the adjournment of Congress when it was found that the House had passed the bill authorizing the half dollar, and the Senate had passed a bill authorizing a medal for the same occasion. The two bills are entirely different in text and not a mere change of the word "coin" to "medal." The President approved the bill providing for a medal.

The feeling of discontent in Norfolk has been suppressed since the adjournment of Congress in the hope that some adjustment could be made whereby the coin could be issued. But on August 5, according to the Norfolk Ledger-Dispatch, Major Turin "ripped away the veil of secrecy that has shrouded negotiations and called a spade a spade." He placed the responsibility on the doorstep of the White House. He is reported as saying:

"We haven't quit the fight. We've asked an appointment with President Roosevelt for the purpose of discussing the matter and laying Norfolk's claim squarely before him. We have a right to know why Norfolk has been discriminated against. It's time for the people of this area to rise up in righteous indignation at this insult to the city. The past session of Congress passed bills and the President signed them authorizing the issuance of fifteen commemorative coins. Is the landing of the Swedes in Delaware of more historical importance than the original land grant for Norfolk county, comprising what is now Norfolk, Princess Anne and Nansemond counties, and embracing what historians recognize as the most historical area in the country? Is the settlement of northern Illinois, commemorated by the Elgin issue, more important than the granting of the royal charter to Norfolk City? Why, after all these commemorative coins had been authorized, should governmental authorities suddenly become so solicitous of their coinage that the Norfolk issue is so mysteriously changed to call for a medal? Something is wrong. Something is radically wrong. And it's time for the people of Norfolk to bring every pressure to bear in an attempt to remove what is in reality a direct insult to the city."

The change from a coin to a medal in the Senate was equally as great a surprise to Senator Glass as to Major Turin. He quoted Senator Glass as follows:

"Turin, if I was told that bill was to be changed from a coin to a medal, I do not remember it. If I had thought there was the least possible chance for anything to happen to that bill, I would have taken whatever action was necessary to prevent it. If Major Robertson, of Lexington, who had the bill passed in the House, when he asked the clerk of the House if the bill provided for half dollars and was told that it did, had been advised to the contrary, he would have offered an amendment changing it back to a coin. The House would have passed it and I would have taken care of it in the Senate."

Both Senator Glass and Representative Darden, confident the passage of the coin bill was assured, were attending meetings of the House and Senate Naval Affairs Committee when the final action was taken.

Anticipating that no difficulty would arise, the sponsors of the coin some time ago had commissioned William Marks Simpson to prepare the models, and they were placed before Secretary Morgenthau for approval early in August. A description of the designs follows: Obverse, in the center, a ship sailing to right. Surrounding this are three concentric circles of inscriptions, the outer one reading "Borough of Norfolk Bicentennial 1936." The reverse shows a king's scepter, upright, dividing "Norfolk Virginia Land Grant 1636." Above, "United States of America." Below, "Half Dollar." The inscription "E Pluribus Unum" is divided by the top of the scepter, and "In God We Trust" and "Liberty" are placed at the sides.

Commemorative Coins

Here's One We Missed.

Our attention has been called to the fact that the text for the Bridgeport half dollar has not been published in these pages. This bill was among those passed by Congress and approved by the President. The text is as follows:

A BILL

To authorize the coinage of 50-cent pieces in commemoration of the one-hundredth anniversary of the incorporation of Bridgeport, Connecticut, as a city.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That in commemoration of the one-hundredth anniversary of the incorporation of the city of Bridgeport, Connecticut, there shall be coined at the mints of the United States silver 50-cent pieces to the number of not more than ten thousand, such 50-cent pieces to be of the standard troy weight, composition, diameter, device, and such design as shall be fixed by the Director of the Mint, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury. Such 50-cent pieces shall be legal tender in any payment to the amount of their face value.

Sec. 2. The coins herein authorized shall be issued only upon the request of the Bridgeport Centennial, Incorporated, Bridgeport, Connecticut, upon payment by such organization of the par value of such coins, and it shall be permissible for such Bridgeport Centennial, Incorporated, to obtain such coins upon such payment, all at one time or at separate times and in separate amounts, as it may determine.

Sec. 3. All laws now in force relating to the subsidiary silver coins of the United States and the coining or striking of the same, regulating the guarding and process of coinage, providing for the purchase of material, and for the transportation, distribution, and redemption of coins, for the prevention of debasement or counterfeiting, for security of the coins, or for any other purposes, whether such laws are penal or otherwise, shall, so far as applicable, apply to the coinage herein authorized: Provided, That the United States shall not be subject to the expense of making the necessary dies or other preparations for this coinage.

"Medals" Instead of "Coins."

In addition to the list of commemorative coins authorized by Congress at its recent session, and approved by the President, published in the August issue of The Numismatist, there were three bills also approved for which medals were authorized instead of the coins asked for. They were to commemorate "the three-hundredth anniversary of the original Norfolk (Va.) land grant and the two-hundredth anniversary of the establishment of the city of Norfolk, Va., as a borough"; to "commemorate the one-hundredth anniversary of the arrival of Marcus and Narcissa Whitman in the Walla Walla Valley, Washington, and the founding of the Wailatpu Mission," and to "commemorate the one-hundredth anniversary of the founding of the city of Shreveport, La., and the opening of the Red River of the West to navigation."

These bills are much alike in wording, differing only in the event to be commemorated and the committee for which the medals are to be struck. Following is the text of the bill for the Norfolk land grant medal:

AN ACT

To authorize the striking of an appropriate medal in commemoration of the three-hundredth anniversary of the original Norfolk (Virginia) land grant and the two-hundredth anniversary of the establishment of the city of Norfolk, Virginia, as a borough.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That in commemoration of the three-hundredth anniversary of the original Norfolk (Virginia) land grant and the two-hundredth anniversary of the establishment of the city of Norfolk, Virginia, as a borough, there shall be struck at a mint of the United States to be designated by the Director of the Mint twenty-five thousand commemorative medals of a special appropriate single design, size, weight, and composition to be fixed by the Director of the Mint with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury.

Sec. 2. Such commemorative medals shall be delivered to the duly authorized officers of the Norfolk Advertising Board, Incorporated, affiliated with the Norfolk Association of Commerce, upon payment to the Director of the Mint of an amount to be fixed by the Director of the Mint not less than the estimated cost of manufacture, including labor, materials, dies, use of machinery, and overhead expenses; and security satisfactory to the Director of the Mint shall be furnished to indemnify the United States for the full payment of such cost.

Sec. 3. Whoever shall falsely make, forge, or counterfeit or cause or procure to be falsely made, forged, or counterfeited or shall aid in falsely making, forging, or counterfeiting any medal issued under the provisions of this Act, or whoever shall sell or bring into the United States or any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof from any foreign place, or have in his possession any such false, forged, or counterfeited medal, shall be fined not more than $1,000 or imprisoned not more than two years, or both.

Approved, June 26, 1936.

It will be noted that no fixed price is set to be paid for the medals, but that the committee will be charged the "estimated cost of manufacture." Twenty-five thousand pieces are authorized in each of the three cases, each issue to be struck at only one mint, and each from only one design.

It will also be noted that the size, weight and composition of the medals is not fixed by the acts. These matters are to be left to the Director of the Mint and the Secretary of the Treasury. In the case of the Norse-American medal, issued in 1926, the act provided that the medal should be struck in silver of the same weight and fineness as the U. S. half dollar. In each of the three cases the acts provide for the punishment of counterfeiters of the medals much the same as the laws against counterfeiting U. S. coins.

What Albany's Half Dollar Commemorates.

Albany held a celebration July 19 to 22 to commemorate its growth from a fur-trading post and one of the first settlements of the New World to the capital of the Empire State. July 22 was the 250th anniversary of the Dongan Charter. On that date, 1686, the Colonial Governor, Sir Thomas Dongan, delivered the charter to Peter Schuyler, Albany's first Mayor. The document is preserved in the City Library. The city claims the title of the oldest continuing settlement in the country by citing that the Dutch settled there in 1614, six years before the Landing of the Pilgrims. The coin was designed by Miss Dorothy Lathrop, an Albany artist. It is expected the coins will be ready early in September.

The San Francisco-Oakland Coin to Show Grizzly Bear.

The obverse of the half dollar commemorating the completion of the San Francisco-Oakland bridge was designed by Jacques Schnier, San Francisco sculptor, and will show Monarch II, 26 years old, last of the California valley grizzlies. He was born in captivity in Golden Gate Park and has since resided there. The reverse of the half dollar will show the new bridge, with Ferry Tower in the foreground. The bridge opening ceremonies will take place November 12-14, and the coins are expected to be ready for distribution at that time.

Senator Glass Objects to Portrait On Coin.

Press reports state that Senator Carter Glass vigorously protested having his portrait appear on the Lynchburg (Va.) half dollar to commemorate the sesqui-centennial of his home city. As a last resort he is said to have called at the Philadelphia mint recently to ask "if it were permissible for the profile of a live man to appear on coins." Told there was no law against it, Senator Glass shook his head and said: "I had hoped there would be an avenue of escape." His fellow-townsmen arranged for the coin.

Senator Glass is chairman of the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency, succeeding Senator Fletcher of Florida, who died a few weeks ago.

Designs Approved for Columbia (S. C.) Coin.

James H. Hammond, chairman of the Columbia (S. C.) Sesqui-Centennial Commission, has been notified of the approval by the Fine Arts Commission of the designs for the Columbia half dollar. A. Wolfe Davidson, Clemson College sculptor, prepared the designs. The bill authorized 25,000 coins. It has not yet been decided whether all of them will be struck at one mint. It is said that orders for 10,000 coins had been received to August 1.

Great Lakes (Cleveland) Coin Distributed in August.

Distribution of the Cleveland half dollar began August 1. The coin was illustrated in the July issue of this magazine from a photograph of the sculptor's models.

The York County (Maine) Half Dollar.

Walter P. Nichols, distributor of the York County half dollar, writes as follows:

The York County commemorative half dollar is in every way a State of Maine product, designed by a Maine man, the obverse and reverse emblematical of York County and distributed by citizens of the State of Maine.

The obverse shows Brown's Garrison, one of the first stockades in existence, situated on the Saco River, in Saco, Maine, and was located on the site of the present York National Bank building. In a book published by Mr. Frank C. Deering, president of the York National Bank, in 1931, on the anniversary of one hundred years of that bank, entitled "The Proprietors of Saco," Mr. Deering uses an old wood cut of this garrison, from which was taken the design.

The reverse is the seal of York County, which is on file in the State Library at Augusta, and which adorns the high leather-back chair of the presiding justice of the Superior Court at Alfred, Maine. The seal is a red cross in a white shield and in the upper left corner is the pine tree, emblematical of Maine, the Pine Tree State. Over the shield was the date 1636, but as we used this date opposite the 1936, this is eliminated on the coin.

Around the edge is inscribed "York County, The First County in Maine." At that early date the thought of adding "Maine" after York County was overlooked, and not essential, as this was the only York County in existence. Today there are other York counties, but, Maine's York County will always be the first.

The artist was Walter H. Rich, of Portland, Maine, and Falmouth Foreside. Mr. Rich is nationally known for his remarkable drawings of wild life, which show the greatest of detail and exactness of color.

The models were made by G. S. Pacetti Company of Boston, Mass. These were carved in solid brass and were a masterpiece. It was the first time such models had been submitted to the Treasury Department and to the United States Mint for a commemorative half dollar and caused many most favorable comments.

Twenty five thousand of the York County commemorative half dollars were minted, and 10,000 were reserved for the residents of York County and the State of Maine. This allotment was oversubscribed and additional assignments were made, which left a small number for the collectors in the United States. An attempt has been made to supply all individual collectors, and the commission trusts that they have been successful.

The Antietam Half Dollar.

The following letter has been received from the Commemorative Coin Committee of the Washington County (Maryland) Historical Society regarding the Antietam half dollar:

"The Washington County Historical Society, as the sponsoring agency for the 1937 celebration of the seventy-fifth anniversary of the Battle of Antietam, announces to coin collectors that the proposed coinage and issuance of a special commemorative coin in honor of the celebration has been deferred until February or March of 1937. Assurance is given that this commemorative coin when issued will be unique in design, this uniqueness in itself forecasting an unprecedented demand on the part of collectors who appreciate the artistic. The details of the design are being closely guarded, but will be most appropriately linked with the event which the issue commemorates.

"Complete details as to this issue will be announced in the January or February issues of coin collectors' and hobbyists' publications, and no advance checks or money orders will be received prior to such announcement. All checks and money orders already received will be returned to the sender, whose interest is most deeply appreciated. In the proposed announcement of the issue it will be understood that no priority of reservations will be established except that members of the Washington County Historical Society will be given a position of priority in reservations, this applying to present and prospective members, to each of whom not more than ten coins will be allotted."

Bridgeport's Half Dollar to Have Barnum's Portrait.

The Bridgeport Centennial half dollar will have on the obverse a portrait of the late Phineas T. Barnum, who as a showman for many years gave the American people what they wanted. Illustrations of the sculptor's models show a large head of Barnum in profile, with the inscription, "Bridgeport Connecticut Centennial 1836-1936" surrounding. The reverse has a standing eagle occupying a large part of the coin, with "United States of America" above and "Half Dollar" below. It is expected the coins will be ready for distribution early in September. They will commemorate the one hundredth anniversary of the incorporation of Bridgeport as a city, and the proceeds will be used towards defraying the expenses incidental to the celebration of the event.

Milton H. Friedberg, Centennial financial committee chairman, said that each applicant is limited to the purchase of not more than five coins and that all applications will be filled in the order of their receipt. Each coin will be sold at $2 net and this price includes the usual distribution charges.

The chairman further said the market for the coins will be thoroughly protected and purchasers are assured there will be no deviation from the above price. Distribution in Bridgeport will be through the local banking institutions and out-of-town applicants will be cared for by Charles H. Hurliman of the First National Bank and Trust Company.

In formulating the design for the commemorative coin, the Centennial executive committee decided to have an American eagle on one side, while on the reverse side will be a likeness of the head of Phileas Taylor Barnum. Recognition of Barnum is because of the many outstanding civic deeds that he performed for the advancement of Bridgeport, which included the gift of Seaside Park to the city and the upbuilding of the East Side of the city. Also, because of the fact that Barnum was Mayor of Bridgeport and during his term of office, he worked diligently for the betterment of the city he called "home."

The Michigan Half Dollar.

The following notice has been sent out by the Detroit Coin Club:

The Detroit Coin Club regrets very much that we are not able to give you any definite information at this time on the proposed Michigan commemorative half dollar. If we are successful in having our bill approved by Congress next year, you will be notified through The Numismatist. We are not making any reservations or accepting any orders at this time, but you may rest assured that the Detroit Coin Club will not approve of any quantity or price that will not be fair to all collectors. Please excuse this delay in answering your inquiry, as it came along with hundreds of others, at a very unexpected time.

A NEW COIN FIRM IN NEW YORK CITY.

Announcement is made in the advertising pages of this issue of The Numismatist of the formation in New York City of a new firm of coin dealers. The proprietor is Moritz Wormser, of 95 Fifth avenue, with David M. Bullowa and Charles M. Wormser as associates. Mr. Wormser has long been recognized as one of New York's foremost collectors and is splendidly equipped for a career as a dealer. He has been active in the affairs of the American Numismatic Association for many years and served for five years as its President. To his active work in that capacity and for several years recently as chairman of the Publicity Committee, much of the progress of the A. N. A. is due. We wish him and his associates success in their new venture.

New York Numismatic Gossip

By Our New York
Correspondent

Visitors to New York during July included Walter P. Nichols, of Melrose, Mass., and Saco, Maine, and Merrill V. Sheldon, of Chicago. Mr. Nichols was engaged in the task of having his York County half dollar approved by Government officials here before going to Washington. Drawings indicate that the York half dollar will be quite attractive. Mr. Sheldon was looking over the city before continuing his journey down the coast. Unlike New Yorkers, who have the daily opportunity of visiting places of interest in the city and do not take advantage of it, Mr. Sheldon made the most of his visit by first viewing the entire city from the Empire State Building at a height of twelve hundred feet and then getting an insight into the workings of the financial machinery by going through the New York Stock Exchange. In connection with this he received a booklet of which he is quite proud. He told us among other things that in Chicago commemoratives could not be sold and that they are having a real battle on the entire commemorative front.

Members of the Bronx Coin Club are ready to contest anybody in this locality who says his club is better than theirs. For the longest time the fight for the larger membership, second only to that of the New York club, was a nip-and-tuck battle between Westchester and the Bronx, but Westchester is now definitely in the lead. Although its meetings are by far the best attended in the metropolitan area, the number of regular exhibitors is unexplainably low. Out of about forty-five in attendance at the July meeting, only seven or eight brought exhibits. Maybe it is that hardly any of the members have material of which they are especially proud, or maybe it is that the topics chosen are not satisfactory. Exhibits at the New York club, on the other hand, have at times made the newer members feel as though their prize pieces were just junk, but eventually have the desirable effect of making members buy the choicer material.

Harry Stein's persistent efforts of three years to turn the Bronx members to collecting ancient coins are now bearing fruit. He received within the last year considerable help from the various non-distributors of U. S. commemorative half dollars. Collectors of this series, becoming disgusted with the system, turned to something else and the missionary work on ancients rewarded Mr. Stein with several converts. Among them are Messrs. Carpenter, Knobloch, Sghia and Werner. Of course, Stuart Mosher is now also lending a helping hand.

At the July meeting of the Bronx club the waiter served a plate of consomme on George Kennedy's coat. George nonchalantly tried to light a Murad. We wonder if Nicoletti could make a cartoon of this. Incidentally, the drawings of prominent A. N. A. figures that appeared in the August issue of The Numismatist were the cause of considerable mirth here. Mr. Wormser's European trip apparently helped him take off some avoidsupois and grow some more hair. Mr. Blake appeared quite sleepy but not so much so that he didn't notice the absence of Mr. Wilson's pipe and the surrounding smoke. Mr. Duffield comments that he has little hair, does not wear a mustache and doesn't smoke that brand of cigar. Now, what we want to know is why Mr. Zerbe is rocking the boat. Maybe it's because of the long list of commemoratives Mr. Foster seems to be examining.

In keeping with the Westchester club's reputation of doing things differently, we learned that out of respect to their deceased president his office would remain vacant for the rest of the year. However, Vice-President Dewey will continue his good work as presiding officer. And one parting shot, why don't they find some other way of taking attendance than by calling the membership roll. They seem to be the only ones that do it that way.

HARVARD DISPLAYS COINS OF MASSACHUSETTS COLONY.

As you know, Harvard is just entering on an enormous tercentenary celebration, the college having been founded in 1636. I did not realize they were showing any coins, and, as a matter of fact, the Pine Tree Shilling exhibit is probably a comparatively small part of a magnificent collection of old silver, furniture and relics pertaining to the college in its early days. These pieces have been gathered from all over the country from graduates and descendants of graduates, but I think the authorities at Harvard have tried to limit the exhibition to pieces that pertained to graduates. The following is from the Boston Evening Transcript of August 3:

SHEPARD POND.

A few tiny pieces of silver, dented and blackened with age, now being displayed in Robinson Hall, at Harvard, are evidence that as far back as the middle 1600's, when Massachusetts was still only a struggling colony, there were counterfeiters abroad in the land, vexing the good people with their spurious work. The pieces on display, part of a tercentenary exhibition of American arts and crafts of 1636-1936, are early coins, the work of John Hull and Robert Sanderson. Hull was appointed head of the first mint and chose Sanderson as his helper. Together they made the first legal coins in this country.

Hull came to New England as a child and learned from his half-brother, Richard Storer, a London-trained craftsman, the art of silversmithing. Like his son-in-law, Samuel Sewall, he kept a careful diary wherein he recorded in 1652: "Also upon occasion of much counterfeit coin brought into the country, and much loss accruing on that respect (and that did occasion a stoppage of trade), the General Court did order a mint to be set up, and to coin it, bringing it to the sterling standard for fineness, and for every shilling to be three pennyweight; i. e. 9d. at 5s per ounce. And they made choice of me for that employment; and I chose my friend, Robert Sanderson, to be my partner, to which the Court consented."

Sanderson was a silversmith who had learned his trade in London and had come to this country in 1638. A few pieces of decorative silver, the individual work of these men, still remain; many pieces bearing the marks of both are in existence, chiefly in the churches; and their work is the earliest which is known to have survived of the American silversmiths.

According to ancient records, the first order of the Court was that the coin should be "for form, flat & square on the sides, and stamped on the one side with N E and on the other side with XIId, VIId, and IIId."

Of these, three are shown in the Harvard display. A few months later, to prevent "clipping or washing," they were ordered to have a double ring around the edge on both sides, which served the same purpose as the milling on present-day coins. Within the rings was to be this inscription: "Massachusetts, and a tree in the centre, on the one side; and New England, and the date of the year, on the other side."

Three "pine tree" and four "oak tree" coins are exhibited; a third "willow tree" variety was also minted although there is not one in the Harvard display.

B. Max Mehl, the Fort Worth (Texas) coin dealer, is spending his vacation in Alaska. A postcard from him dated July 21st from Sitka, says: "No coins here, but plenty of beautiful scenery and good rest."

A. H. BALDWIN.

A. H. Baldwin, of the firm of A. H. Baldwins & Sons, Ltd., of London, England, one of the leading numismatic dealers in London, died on July 24. The firm was located at 3 Robert St., Adelphia, London. Mr. Baldwin met with a fall in the garden at his home about two months ago and broke his hip. After a week in bed he had a stroke, followed by two others, which resulted in his death.

He was one of the most popular dealers in Europe. He had a marvelous numismatic knowledge, a most retentive memory, and his knowledge of coins and medals was freely given to all who sought information. His firm had long enjoyed a reputation for honesty and fair dealing.

It is expected the business will be carried on by his sons, A. H. F. Baldwin and W. V. R. Baldwin, and a grandson, assisted by Robert E. Atkinson, of the war medal department. G.

Alfred Henry Baldwin, the well-known English coin dealer, died at his home in Twickenham on July 24th last after an illness of about a month. Mr. Baldwin was born in 1858 and commenced dealing in 1872 as a boy of fourteen, when, as he used to recall, he frequently did without many things except bare necessities in order to buy coins, for his interest in coins was never commercial except secondarily; his interest in them was that of a collector, and he devoted his entire life to the pursuit. After the day's work was done he would generally spend the evening at home, working on his own collections, for he had collections embracing many series. Mr. Baldwin had a marvelous memory, and when he once saw a rare coin he never forgot it, and if he saw the piece again after many years he could without difficulty tell its pedigree and recall where he had seen it last. His knowledge of numismatics was extraordinary, and it is to be regretted that he never had the time to write extensively on the subject.

Mr. Baldwin was a typical gentleman of the old school, of a type that has now almost disappeared, but he had a keen sense of humor which enabled him to pass over with a smile and a twinkle in his eye various present-day ideas and customs even though they were foreign to his own methods and ways of thinking. He was always tolerant and patient with people lacking his knowledge, and his recollections of the numismatic world of fifty years ago were of the greatest interest. The science of numismatics has suffered a great loss through his death.

Mr. Baldwin joined the A. N. A. very soon after the Association was founded, and at the time of his death there were only six other original members of the Association. J.

WILLIAM F. HENDRICKS.

After a long illness, William F. Hendricks, a member of the A. N. A., died on July 15 at his home, 1711 Leavenworth street, Omaha, Neb. He was 70 years old.

For forty years he had been one of Omaha's leading collectors of coins and stamps. He is survived by his widow. Members of the Omaha Coin Club and Omaha Stamp Club acted as pallbearers at the funeral.

HEART OF AMERICA NUMISMATIC ASSOCIATION (Kansas City, Mo.)—July 13th, 28th meeting, with 14 members and two visitors present. George G. Paris presided.

A letter of the Chicago Coin Club, containing their protest as well as recommendations, was read, and resulted in a spirited discussion. Their protest and their recommendations are very much the same as ours of over a year ago. We do not find that they voiced their approval of any of our actions, but we are very glad to cooperate with them as much as possible. The only point in which we differ with the Chicago Coin Club is that they like to see the issues limited to two issues a year, while we would not object to having the Government issue ten or twelve coins per year.

A full list of the authorized new issues was read but it did not serve to elate any of the members.

Mrs. Steele, our lady charter member, entertained with some fine and timely poetry of her own brand, and displayed some letters from Buckingham Palace and the Texas Centennial Commission, thanking and complimenting her on her accomplishment.

Dunlap Vanice displayed a fine variety of old style U. S. currency bills. Mr. Paris displayed a complete set of the commemorative halves and a unique frame with removable panels for displaying large and small coins as desired. There also was displayed an uncirculated proof 5 shillings of Oom Paul Krueger of 1892, of which our Charles Stump can justly be proud.

Rev. Edward W. Thwing will be the speaker for the September meeting. Subject unannounced.

Auction followed adjournment.

PHILADELPHIA COIN CLUB—August 13, 14th meeting called to order by President Faucett. Twenty-six members were present. It was decided that no election would be taken by the club to endorse any candidate for election. The president urged all members of the club to send in their ballots, and the names of proxies in this district could be obtained from the secretary.

The door prize of the evening was won by Mr. Reed. After adjournment a display of a number of lots and an auction conducted by Mr. Iannarella and Mr. Reed concluded the evening's entertainment.

WASHINGTON NUMISMATIC SOCIETY—July 14, President Edward L. Weikert, Jr., presiding. Eight members and six visitors were present. The meeting was held at the historic old home of our genial member L. F. Dyson, 1004 Prince Street, Alexandria, Va. This home was built in 1802 and has been occupied continuously by Mr. Dyson's family and is richly furnished with family heirlooms. President Weikert introduced the host and hostess to those present.

President Weikert spoke on the closing of Congress and made mention of the fact that Congressman Cochran, of Missouri, said that there would be no more commemorative coins after this year. This statement was also confirmed by Senator Adams, chairman of the sub-committee on Banking and Currency. This sentiment was in a great part due to the mishandling and unequal distribution by those responsible for some issues of commemorative coins. Mr. Weikert also spoke of his effort in interviewing different members of Congress regarding the issue of these commemorative coins and of his appearing with others before the Committee on Coinage to try to correct the abuses just mentioned. He also gave a list of the commemorative coin bills and their status at the closing of the session. There was shown a list issued by the U. S. Treasury Department giving information pertaining to all the late commemorative coins, and the name of the person or commission to contact with regard to procuring the same. This list is available to those who may write for it.

Since our last meeting the society was grieved to learn of the death of George H. Russell, the society's first president and one of its founders. Mr. Russell passed away June 14th after an illness of about a week. The president appointed a resolution committee to prepare a suitable memorial and send to his widow.

On vote of the society, Messrs. Chapman, Huberman, Aldridge, Bream and O'Meara were elected to membership.

The matter was brought up by President Weikert, and it was voted to extend an invitation to the American Numismatic Association to hold its convention in Washington, D. C., in 1937 and Harry Boosel will present this invitation in person at the 1936 Convention in Minneapolis in August.

Before the meeting adjourned a rising vote of thanks was extended to Mr. and Mrs. Dyson for their true Southern hospitality (which included mint juleps) and cooling beverages.

The balance of the evening was devoted to the study of Mr. Dyson's large collection of United States silver, especially the half dollars, which dominated the collection. Mr. Dyson also displayed a large collection of paper money. This included a great number of early Virginia State notes.

Convention be sent to Mr. Blake, to be used by him as he shall decide. The ballot of the coming election of the A. N. A. was read and a motion was made and seconded that the ballot be left to the executive committee with power.

A motion was made that Mr. deLagerberg be made an honorary member of this society and that a copy of this resolution be drawn up and sent to him.

Various members exhibited recent acquisitions and talked briefly on them.

For the September meeting there will be three speakers on the following subjects: Mr. Hughes, general collecting; Mr. Wade, four-dollar gold pieces; Mr. Blaisdell, gold coins in general.

BROOKLYN COIN CLUB—August 8, 40th meeting, with President Reagan in the chair. Fourteen members and three visitors were present.

A short discussion was held about a new meeting place and a committee was appointed to select a convenient place and report at the next regular meeting.

Mr. Schwartz donated several coins to the club cabinet. The president thanked him in behalf of the club.

A vote of thanks was accorded to Stuart Mosher for his gift of several numismatic books to the "William R. Tait Library."

A general discussion took place about the forthcoming A. N. A. election, and the club endorsed various candidates for the several offices to be filled, and also endorsed the candidacy of Martin F. Kortjohn as a member of the Board of Governors.

The following members were appointed on the Metropolitan Convention committee: Lewis M. Reagan, Ernest Kraus and Morris Klaif as secretary of the committee.

Exhibits were made by most of the members present.

NORTHWEST COIN CLUB—July 9. The meeting was called to order by President Curtis with 22 members present. A staff photographer from the Minneapolis Tribune was present and took half a dozen pictures, which appeared in the paper the next morning.

The application of Walter A. Eggleson was received, to be voted on at the next regular meeting.

Among the coins on exhibit and found to be very interesting was a set of "bingles" which the secretary received from E. J. Cronin, of the Alaska Rural Rehabilitation Corporation, at Palmer, Alaska. This set consists of eight pieces of various denominations ranging from one cent to ten dollars. There was also on display a copy of the Matanuska Valley Pioneer, the local newspaper at Palmer.

A motion was made that Brady L. Boatwright be made an honorary member of the Club. Carried.

The majority of the evening was spent hearing from the various committees relative to the progress made in arranging for the 1936 A. N. A. Convention to be held in our city from August 22nd to 27th, inclusive. The committees all reported favorably for a very successful convention.

PACIFIC COAST NUMISMATIC SOCIETY—250th meeting, July 22nd. There were present members, their wives and guests too numerous to list.

The occasion was a special one in that is combined our 250th meeting and a welcome to Founder Farran Zerbe and his wife. Many old friends of his were present and the half hour before the meeting was given over to greetings.

Mr. Webb presented to the society and the president a gavel to be used at this and future meetings. It was immediately put to work.

On motion, Mr. Zerbe was asked to carry our invitation to the Minneapolis convention, asking them to meet in San Francisco in 1939 during the Golden Gate International Exposition.

Basil Brandon, on behalf of the charter members of the P. C. N. S., welcomed Mr. and Mrs. Zerbe to San Francisco and the society. President Wyman, in well-chosen words, presented a token to commemorate the occasion to Farran Zerbe.

There being no further business, the society adjourned to the banquet hall, where the table had been set with a birthday cake with twenty-one candles. Here the talks were made, but the one most enjoyed was that by our founder. When President Wyman finally called the evening over, the members left, realizing a most pleasant evening had marked our 250th meeting and welcome to Mr. and Mrs. Zerbe.

THE P. C. N. S. 250TH MEETING.

It has been the pleasure of the members of the Pacific Coast Numismatic Society to have had Farran Zerbe and his wife with us during the month of July. Although Mr. Zerbe spends most of his time in New York and hails from the East, we always look to his visits to us in the nature of a homecoming. After all, he is the founder and honorary president of our society and has been here long enough in the past to have accumulated a host of friends here. And I am sure that Mrs. Zerbe also will leave a large number of friends here who will be glad to have met her.

On July 22nd, 1936, the Pacific Coast Numismatic Society held its 250th meeting in the 21st year of its existence, and it was only fitting that this should be the occasion for the welcome to Mr. and Mrs. Zerbe. Invitations were sent to the numismatic fraternity and they and their ladies gathered at the Whitcomb Hotel in San Francisco. The committee in charge, under the chairmanship of Ernest Wernstrom, had decorated our meeting place with historic items out of the society's past and also had installed a replica of the Chase Architrave in honor of our founder. President Wyman called the meeting to order, just a short meeting to initiate our friends into the secrets of these occasions. Basil Brandon, the only charter member present besides Farran Zerbe, welcomed Mr. and Mrs. Zerbe to our city and to our meeting on behalf of the older group, and Vice-President Charles Knabenschuh welcomed them on behalf of the younger group. A welcome was also extended on behalf of the junior coin collectors by Warren Salz.

It was then our pleasure to present a token to Farran Zerbe commemorating the 250th meeting, after which we all retired to the next room. There the committee had the festive board spread, with a birthday cake with twenty-one candles. While the members and guests partook of the refreshments there were numerous talks, but the one we enjoyed the most was Mr. Zerbe's delightful reminiscences. They started in San Francisco before the earthquakes and fire of 1906, took us through the Panama-Pacific International Exposition in 1915, the founding of the Pacific Coast Numismatic Society and down to the present day, and all interestingly interspersed with numismatic lore and experiences, a treat for all of us. When President Wyman finally sent us home, we realized that another important milestone in the society's existence had been passed with the founder still hale and hearty, ever interested in our welfare. That he has such a grand "numismatic assistant" is a joy to us all and we wish them continued health and happiness.

See you all at the Third Far Western Numismatic Conference in San Francisco, this coming November, dates to be announced later.

REILLY COINS GO TO HIS DAUGHTER.

The will of Mrs. Alice Sinnickson Reilly, widow of John Reilly, was filed for probate recently and names her daughter, Miss Frances S. Reilly, as chief beneficiary. Mrs. Reilly died May 27 at her home, 165 East Seventy-first street, New York City. The daughter receives an outright bequest of $75,000, the East Seventy-first street home and her father's collection of Oriental coins, books and pamphlets on numismatics, as well as contents of a room at the American Numismatic Society, Broadway and 156th Street. A life annuity of $25,000 goes to Mrs. Anna L. Reilly, her mother-in-law, of Philadelphia.

John Reilly died about five or six years ago. He was one of the foremost students of Oriental coins in this country and for several years was treasurer of the American Numismatic Society, New York.

COIN CLUB ORGANIZED IN MEMPHIS, TENN.

The Memphis Coin Club was recently formed, composed of twelve charter members, ten of whom are A. N. A. members. Meetings are held on the first Thursday night of each month in President Durham's offices at 826 Derron Building. Much interest is being shown and the club is expected to grow, as all coin collectors in the city have been invited to attend the September meeting with a view of obtaining several applications for membership. The following officers have been elected: T. H. Durham, president; P. B. Trotter, Jr., vice-president; Lee Weed, treasurer, and A. W. Bradley, secretary. The club wishes to acknowledge the valuable assistance in organizing given by District Secretary Wm. D. Hogan, of Parrottsville, Tenn., and General Secretary Harry T. Wilson.

COMMEMORATIVE COINS.

The battle against issuing such a great number of different commemoratives with such a small number of each is increasing every day, as one sees when reading the various articles from collectors and members in The Numismatist.

Before, when issuing these coins from one mint only, such a large number had to appear that more were always returned to the mint to be destroyed than were sold. After the great number of the 1926 Sesqui coins were returned former President Hoover said you are wasting too much money, and put a stop to it entirely, which was the right thing to do and must be done again soon. Why cannot these coins be handled like the stamps? Since the World War most of the nations are issuing a large number of new stamps, but mostly in great quantities, which gives all collectors a chance to get most of the ones they want at a reasonable price. Plenty of U. S. stamps can be had at face value.

With the coins we are on the same road that we were with conditions during the World War. This war was far from being over when so many said join the League of Nations and we will have peace all over the world and wars ended forever. As soon as some nations started to join the league others were increasing their armies and navies so greatly which they are all doing ever since for another World War which we all can look for that is coming soon again.

They have not got rid of the commemoratives yet and are starting already to talk about proof coins which had passed away in 1915. Why don't they finish one battle before they start on another one? These proofs will cause the same trouble that the commemoratives are now. As they are starting to come out with coins from one mint only, why don't they issue at once at least 100,000 and set the price at $1.00 without changing it like before. Then they will see how fast they will be sold and returned to the mint again.

How many will be able to get the Wisconsin coins when more than one-half of the issue was sold before the bill was passed by Congress? This is a disgusting, provoking and tiresome way of doing business. Will it ever be stopped?

This is election year and we all want to get busy and elect a President this time and always from now on who is not a collector. Then the proper attention will be given as soon as necessary and not before.

THE NUMIS-MARKET DIGEST.

A new service to collectors becomes available this month with the release of a new publication, known as the Numis-Market Digest. Its purpose is to consolidate the prices realized on United States coins at the numerous auction sales held by leading dealers throughout the United States. Even the larger sales seldom offer anything like a complete set of any denomination, but during the course of a season it is very likely that every known variety of United States coinage will be offered, even some of the highest rarity. By combining the prices realized into one volume, listed by denomination, date, mint, variety and grade of condition, valuable information on coin values is made readily accessible to the average collector.

The publisher is E. P. Morgan of Atlanta, Ga., a collector and student of coins for many years. Mr. Morgan is a past president of the Atlanta Coin Club, and at present is secretary of that society. He states that it is his intention to make the Numis-Market Digest a standard reference for collectors, bringing out a new edition with revised prices at frequent intervals.

ORGANIZING A LOCAL COIN CLUB.

We receive occasional requests for information on how to organize a local coin club. There are no rules to govern a matter of this kind, as conditions vary in different localities. To form a club someone must assume leadership. He should get the names and addresses of all collectors in his city or county and send each a notice of a preliminary meeting at some central point. This could be supplemented by a notice in the local papers, inviting all collectors to attend. If a sufficient number to warrant organization attends the meeting, officers can be elected at that meeting or a meeting to follow. A constitution and by-laws should be adopted a little later. Incorporation can follow if thought desirable. When organization is completed, application may be made for membership in the A. N. A. as a branch society. Unless a club can be organized with at least ten or a dozen members, with good prospects of additional members a little later, the club will probably not be a success.

HEADING FOR NEW RECORD IN COINAGE.

Dr. Edwin H. Dressel, superintendent of the Philadelphia Mint, said recently the mint is heading for a new record this year in the production of silver and minor coins. Dr. Dressel said 44,000,000 silver coins and 151,000,000 minor coins have been minted already this year. He said the demand for new coinage indicates general business improvement. Last year the mint, operating twenty-four hours a day, produced 102,000,000 silver coins and 303,000,000 minor coins, together with 74,600,000 foreign coins, for a new record.
